Kaligandaki River Rafting - 3 Days

Kaligandaki River Rafting is the best way to challenge the ravenous white rivers of upper Nepal. The Kaligandaki, itself being the deepest gorge in the world, presents a thrilling experience for the rafters rafting in its gushing river. At a glance, the Kaligandaki river appears like a long tape paving its way through the incredibly tall hills, but in reality, it is much more mysterious. Behind the large black rocks hide some beautiful animals- langurs and monkeys- mocking at you. You will see squirrels and some other wild animals, if lucky, while rafting. Kaligandaki River Rafting is indeed one of the most diverse rafting stations of Nepal.

ITINERARY IN DETAIL

Day 1: Drive to Baglung by private bus and have a lunch. After lunch it is straight ino the grade 4 rapid

We camp at one of nature’s five star sites with mind blowing views and dancing waterfalls.

Day 2: Today is continuous grade 3 to 4 world-class white water with rapids like Rafter's Refund and Oar Breaker

Wave trains and holes abound early in the day so watch our it you don’t want to flip! Adrenalin junkies knock yourself out but don’t forget to keep glancing back upstream to catch views of the amazing Annapurna’s. Once camped, the village of Seti Beni is just a short walk upstream and guarantees to delight with its stone flagged lanes and curious youngsters skylarking.

Day 3: We continue downstream

The river cliffs above us and we enter a somber canyon glistening with wet black rocks. You experience what can only be seen from the water, so drink it all in as we drift towards our take out point.
